GREEN COLLAPSES ON STAND

Five Candidates Make Bid For Tory Leadership as Nominations Announced

WINNIPEG, Dec. 11.—(CP)—Candidates for the Conservative national leadership forgot their personal ambitions in a dramatic scene last night as they gathered to help one of their number, Howard C. Green of Vancouver, who collapsed while making his appeal for support to national convention delegates.

Mr. Green, the fourth candidate to speak during the evening, while making his address, paused as if searching for a word. He swayed for a moment and then slowly collapsed to the floor.

Maj. Murdoch A. Diefenbaker, of Regina; John G. Diefenbaker, of Prince Albert; Sask. Premier John Bracken, of Manitoba; and Hon. H. H. Stevens of Vancouver, the other candidates, ran to his side to assist him. He recovered rapidly but did not finish his speech.

Throughout the addresses of all the candidates—including Mr. Bracken, who has been the most active leadership in the progressive policies endorsed by convention delegates, who passed 12 resolutions during the day-long session.

Mr. Bracken, who was dubbed the "mystery man" of the convention, ended speculation as to his position by appearing at the meeting place just before nominations closed at eight o'clock.

The first candidate to speak, Mr. Diefenbaker, said he had no objection to the convention, but because of his 20 years of experience in public life—all of it in the service of Manitoba—might be of use to Canada.

ACCEPTS CHALLENGE
If someone else obtained the leadership he would be happy, but the possibility of giving up this office had appeared a challenge he could not refuse.

Mr. Stevens said he was a democrat to a democratic attitude. Whatever happened, he would leave Winnipeg a happy man because he had taken part in framing resolutions of a progressive government. He said he believed the resolutions vindicated the stand he had taken in the past.

Mr. Diefenbaker, the third candidate to speak, said he was chosen leader would have his support.

There could be no united Canada on the basis of a "hyphenated nationalism," he said. The only way for national unity, the Conservative party was the only party in Canada with the courage to stand up to bureaucracy, and it was alone to participate in the party.

Opening his address with his usual quiet manner of speaking and waving a hand to the microphone, Mr. Green said he would soon make his phrase and motto as "I am searching for a word, then I collapse."

Hon. H. A. Bruce, member of parliament for Toronto-Parkdale, said the friendship of the Conservative party was the only party in Canada with the courage to stand up to bureaucracy, and it was alone to participate in the party.

After a few minutes, Mr. Green revived and tried to return to the microphone, but his friends made him stop and carried him from the platform.

Mr. Green was revived and convention chairman H. H. Miller said he was recovered. He was taken to the hospital.

Mr. Bracken, the last speaker of the five, said the party was the only party in Canada with the courage to stand up to bureaucracy, and it was alone to participate in the party.

DUTY TO PERFORM
There was a duty to perform in offering Canadian leadership, which they could express their opposition to "a government which does not represent the views of the way of life we should have in this country."

This afternoon the convention will vote on the new leader.

Amid great applause, the candidates took seats on the platform after hearing their names called by convention officials.

President Sidney Smith of the Union of Maritime Provinces, who presided provisionally but withdrew after Premier Bracken's speech, entered the race just before the clock passed the 8 p.m. deadline.

The entrance of the Manitoba premier, hitherto a Liberal-Progressive, was uncertain until the last minute.

As word of his arrival in the convention hall was spread, and among the delegates the pre-nomination excitement became more intense.

Mr. Bracken greeted old friends on his arrival and the convention hall was filled with the sound of his voice.

Mr. Bracken was met by Conservative House Leader H. H. Stevens, who was the first to greet him.

Mr. Green had won his seat in the house of commons in 1935. "When the wind was blowing against me, I was blowing with it."

Again in 1940 he had won under election conditions, with double the vote polled in 1935, polling more votes than any other elected Conservative candidate.

Howard Green, who was elected to the house of commons in 1935, said, "Members will listen to him because they respect him."

continued, but perhaps he could speak in the language of the common people and express their feelings.

Civilization was at the great crossroads. The only way to save it was to sink into the dark ages, perhaps barbarism; but if the way were there could be an age of progress.

Mr. Bracken congratulated the convention on the way it had met the challenge of the hour.

The peace 20 years ago was lost. "We are here on the eastern edge of a great agricultural empire," he said. "Within the lifetime of men now living 2,500,000 people have been added to this country to a huge of farmers, increasing wheat production from nothing to 100,000,000 bushels."

MAJOR PROBLEM
The piling up of surplus wheat in Canada is the most serious economic problem. As western products turned from wheat to other products, they merely transferred the problem of surplus. Thus, all farmers and producers were interested in the solution of the problem, Mr. Bracken continued.

"I am glad to know you have put a plank in your platform that agriculture is the backbone of Canada. Mr. Bracken said, 'If you had not done that I would not be here tonight.'"

A few years ago one out of 10 people in Canada was a farmer. "Society will not be content with the role in future years," he said. "The Manitoba premier, praising rural life, said, 'Social security passed today.'"

"I haven't said much, but I'll stand now," he concluded. "I am not a politician. I am a farmer. I'll take it as a national duty, as many of our boys on the more dangerous front have taken it to the principles in which we live."

When the war was over, when Canada welcomed people from all over the world, the United Kingdom people should be told they were not alone in the world. It was the duty of the Canadian government to be directed to obtaining an end to war effort. He had been the first to recommission the services be used in the war. Ad-

APPEALS AS DEMOCRAT
Mr. Stevens said he regarded as a democrat appealing to a democratic audience. Whatever happened, he would leave Winnipeg a happy man because he had had a part in framing resolutions passed by the convention.

They showed that the Conservative party was changing its pathway of human interests. He felt the resolutions indicated the stand he had taken in the past.

"I stand four-square on the great principles enunciated in the Atlantic Charter," said Mr. Stevens. "I am not a politician. I am a farmer. I'll take it as a national duty, as many of our boys on the more dangerous front have taken it to the principles in which we live."

The convention had pledged itself to the principles in which we live. "We are not a politician. I am a farmer. I'll take it as a national duty, as many of our boys on the more dangerous front have taken it to the principles in which we live."

leader, he would give loyal support. "The Liberal party on the one hand, riding on the crest of the divisions it has created. Then there is the Socialist party, going to divide Canada on economic grounds. There are going to be class divisions. They want to have class divisions."

judgments should be made in income tax regulations, for the benefit of those in the services. "The struggle in peacetime would be economic. The Conservative Party had to be ready to convince the people of Canada that it stood for individual initiative and security. It was not to be assured under a system of state socialism."

There had been "things wrong with this party," but they were now ready to face the future. "We have a duty to perform in offering to the people a mechanism through which they can express their opposition to a government which does not represent their views of the way of life we should have in this country."

Thousands of Canadians could not be at the convention because they were fighting. Their interests and their future rested in the hands of the Conservative party. "The party could indicate to the electorate its honest policy and goals, could be of paramount importance. The British connection be maintained, and further the trend of the world's life we should have in this country."

The good relations with the United States would be continued. "I believe it is better that there should be on this continent two separate and distinct nations north of the Rio Grande. In the future the peace of the world should be reached now. Solutions which appeared good at the moment might be obsolete tomorrow."

There was no need for want in peacetime in Canada. The peace-time relief program was partly the fact there were too few people. Canada had to develop its population would grow up to the country's capacity.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE.—Farmers report weasels are on the increase and that before the winter sets in they were killing off the gobblers.

Extirmination of the gophers, which the settlers at the residents do a great deal of harm, is also all the good, as they do no damage.

On a trail near here recently, two weasels were seen, one pure white and the other dark brown. Many chicken losses suffered recently, are blamed on the weasels, although in previous years they have not been troublesome.

PASSED AT CONVENTION

Conservative Resolutions Reconstruction

WINNIPEG, Dec. 11.—(CP)—Following is the text of the Conservative National Convention resolution on post-war reconstruction policy, as adopted by delegates at yesterday's afternoon convention session:

- 1.—Every person able and willing to work must be assured of gainful occupation with sufficient means to maintain home and family. The objective is full employment at fair wages under progressively improving standards.
- 2.—For the achievement of that objective, full employment at fair wages under progressively improving standards and for the welfare and development of society, we strongly advocate the strengthening of the basic Canadian tradition of individual initiative and individual enterprise and opportunity, and the freeing of economic activities from bureaucratic controls.

MAINTAIN AUTHORITY

Government authority, however, should be maintained and exercised wherever necessary to protect primary producers, workers and consumers from exploitation through such abuses as price-fixing, combines, monopolies and patent cartels.

To these ends we believe that government should seek to create conditions under which the maximum volume of employment and the maximum national income may be assured through the initiative and enterprise of the people themselves.

- 3.—It is the duty of the state:
  - (a) To maintain at high level the income and standard of living of the individual citizen whose interests must always be paramount.
  - (b) To maintain the principle of private initiative and enterprise; to initiate, undertake and control projects of public and national benefit in those fields in which private enterprise is provided from serving or is unable to serve the public interest.

4.—Consideration should be given to the problems of the work-unemployment who comprise a large percentage of the people of this country and who lack the benefit of organization to protect their interests—the small retail merchant, the man or woman in services of various kinds such as the carter, truckdriver and taxi man, the odd-jobber, the handyman and the salesman on commission.

Recognition must be given to their enterprise and initiative and to their threatened security and a way found by proper constituted authority to protect their interests.

INDIVIDUAL WORKERS

5.—We recognize the obligation of government to make available to every citizen adequate medical, dental, nursing, hospital and prenatal care, and the further advancement of public health and nutritional principles so that health may be safeguarded and preserved. This program is to be financed under a contributory system by government and worker.

6.—(A) Believing home ownership to be a solid foundation of our social and economic system, we advocate a national housing program, underwritten by government, designed to make houses available on a lease-purchase basis to all families, whether urban or rural, who are in the lower income brackets.

7.—Slum clearance because of its social benefits and employment possibilities should be undertaken as a government responsibility in order to provide housing on a minimum-cost basis, thus to enable us pay the full cost.

8.—The plan should be continuous and flexible, and should include employment, and stimulate construction as economic conditions may determine.

9.—We advocate that there should be prepared forthwith a program for the expansion and distribution and diversification of industry with particular reference to:

- 10.—(A) Requiring the obligation of government to make available to every citizen adequate medical, dental, nursing, hospital and prenatal care, and the further advancement of public health and nutritional principles so that health may be safeguarded and preserved. This program is to be financed under a contributory system by government and worker.

11.—We endorse the aims expressed in the Atlantic Charter and believe that Canada should join in the setting-up of effective international measures to give them practical application with a view to lifting the world's resources available.

12.—We believe that the guiding principle of Canadian tariff policy should be:

- 13.—(A) To provide gainful occupation.
- 14.—(B) To maintain a high standard of living.
- 15.—(C) To ensure a fair price to the consumer.

16.—The government, through a public corporation, should establish a foreign trade advisory service to assist exporters, train men for export business, and place them abroad in strategic places where they can facilitate the sale of Canadian goods and act as a medium for purchase of imports to aid export sales.

17.—It is of the utmost importance that Canada should maintain control over and further develop her vital position in national and international air transportation.

18.—We accept, without reservation, the full equality of women in the life of the nation. We believe that no opportunity in its service or work should be closed to them by reason only of sex. And we accept, as a natural corollary, that remuneration in all lines of production should rest on no other conditions than equal reward for equal value.

19.—We recall, with pride and gratitude, that our part rose to greatness through a fruitful partnership between two great races, French and English.

20.—We are of the belief that the two cultures are part and parcel of our future development and that Canada's true greatness depends on sympathy and understanding between these two original races and all other races that have come to join in the building of our country.

21.—Realizing the inherent greatness of Canada as a nation and recognizing the strength that can come only from unity of purpose, we believe that all the peoples of Canada should unite in fostering a common pride in Canadian achievement and traditions and common loyalty to our ancestral as essential workers, consumers and taxpayers.

22.—(A) Youth should be educated, trained and given equal opportunity to equip themselves for life. The time of working age should be provided with ample opportunity for adult education.

23.—We believe that the reconstruction of post-war Canadian economy must be based upon the following principle set forth in section 5 of the Atlantic Charter:

24.—We desire to bring about the fullest collaboration between all nations in the economic field with the object of securing, for all, improved labor standards, economic adjustment and social security.

25.—A social security program, the adoption of which we advocate, would include in a unified system:

- (a) Unemployment insurance;
- (b) Adequate payments for the maintenance of unemployed;
- (c) Retirement insurance;
- (d) The payment of increased old age pensions, at a reduced rate until such time as the retirement insurance scheme becomes fully operative;
- (e) Adequate mothers' and widows' allowances;
- (f) We advocate the appointment of a minister of social security and reconstruction, charged with the administration of social security in this country.

26.—The state's share of the cost of social security system should be borne by the Dominion.

MEDICAL CARE

27.—We recognize the obligation of government to make available to every citizen adequate medical, dental, nursing, hospital and prenatal care, and the further advancement of public health and nutritional principles so that health may be safeguarded and preserved. This program is to be financed under a contributory system by government and worker.

28.—(A) Believing home ownership to be a solid foundation of our social and economic system, we advocate a national housing program, underwritten by government, designed to make houses available on a lease-purchase basis to all families, whether urban or rural, who are in the lower income brackets.

29.—Slum clearance because of its social benefits and employment possibilities should be undertaken as a government responsibility in order to provide housing on a minimum-cost basis, thus to enable us pay the full cost.

30.—The plan should be continuous and flexible, and should include employment, and stimulate construction as economic conditions may determine.

31.—We advocate that there should be prepared forthwith a program for the expansion and distribution and diversification of industry with particular reference to:

45.—We believe that the reconstruction of post-war Canadian economy must be based upon the following principle set forth in section 5 of the Atlantic Charter:

46.—We desire to bring about the fullest collaboration between all nations in the economic field with the object of securing, for all, improved labor standards, economic adjustment and social security.

47.—A social security program, the adoption of which we advocate, would include in a unified system:

those provinces and areas where industry has so far not established itself on broad lines, and an immediate survey of war industry to ascertain to what extent it can be converted to useful peace-time requirements.

IMPROVE LIVING

48.—(A) Our resources are capable of progressive development and of providing a high standard of living for a greater population, and there is the obligation to provide opportunity for citizenship on equal terms to numbers of kindred-minded people from other lands.

49.—This policy of immigration should visualize and provide assurance of full employment and social security for our population regardless of racial origin.

50.—(A) With a view to the perpetuation in Canada of a democracy, the British tradition, preference in immigration should be given to those whose political background, intelligence and love of freedom are likely to fit them for such a democracy.

51.—(A) The control of immigration should be under the direct control of the government without any subsidiary arrangement with private interests.

52.—No attention should be devoted to immigrants in this country so as to ensure of their naturalization, their full understanding of the privileges and their assumed duties as responsible citizens of Canadian citizenship.

53.—We believe that a peace that is to achieve the members of the British Commonwealth of Nations of which Canada is one, in partnership with the United States of America, as the most appropriate association of nations, for which we in Canada should seek international co-operation.

54.—We endorse the aims expressed in the Atlantic Charter and believe that Canada should join in the setting-up of effective international measures to give them practical application with a view to lifting the world's resources available.

55.—We believe that the guiding principle of Canadian tariff policy should be:

traditions of equality, justice and freedom, and should seek, with due regard for constitutional rights, to achieve that profound sense of the importance of national interests which will ensure harmony and cooperation and that future for our country which was the aim of the confederation.

Rehabilitation

WINNIPEG, Dec. 11.—(CP)—Following is the text of the war veterans' rehabilitation resolution as formally adopted at yesterday's session of the Conservative national convention.

Recognizing our country's great debt to the men and women in the services who are fighting the battle of freedom for Canada, and the collective responsibility of all Canadians that they and their dependents shall not suffer by reason of their sacrifice, we believe that:

- 1.—In carrying out demobilization of Canada's armed forces the primary consideration should be the interest of those who have served. Demobilization should be based on the principle that members of the armed forces who are discharged should be placed in gainful employment or be assisted training and education to that end.

2.—In all public employment preference should be given to those who have served in the armed forces, and no consideration of political patronage should be permitted to interfere with such employment.

3.—Settlement of war veterans upon the land under proper supervision should be generously assisted, having due regard to the qualifications of the veterans.

energy to the military tasks in which they are engaged. It is therefore in the best interests of the nation that those who enter military service be given legal protection against the economic consequences of their service.

For that reason, in all cases where the ability of those in military service and their dependents to meet their financial obligations has been materially affected by such service, the government should give effect to the principle of mortgage, security of property for arrears of taxes, forfeiture of installment contracts, cancellation of insurance policies, and other legal proceedings for debts incurred before entering military service, and other embarrassing financial obligations.

Tory Delegate Says Provinces May Block Plan

WINNIPEG, Dec. 11.—(CP)—Reconstruction policies of the Conservative party can all be frustrated by provincial governments, says James Bone of Belleville, Ont., told the national Conservative convention yesterday.

Mr. Bone said he approved the proposed policies—later adopted by the convention—which were designed to meet post-war problems but added he had little hope for provincial co-operation in reconstruction, in view of the past record of provinces in imposing taxation, defaulting on bonds and extravagant spending.

1.—We believe that the hazardous occupation of those serving in the merchant navy should be fully recognized and their interests protected. Immediate action should be taken to ensure that the pensioners act as now applied to the merchant navy order-in-council should be continued by statute.

Manpower Must Be Allocated Where Needed

Due to the war, the bank's operations have greatly increased in volume and variety," said C. M. Carlisle, president of the Dominion Bank at the 72nd annual meeting in Toronto on December 2. "Cost of operations has increased, but the increased volume of business and rapid expansion have been able to offset some of our disadvantages."

Domination government and bank borrowing had been made at an average interest rate of 2.50 per cent during the year, as compared with 2.50 per cent during the last year, said Mr. Carlisle. Though farm prices had advanced rapidly, there were compensating conditions. "Inflation of industrial values is creating a distorted picture of the general level of prices," he said.

It was essential, said Mr. Carlisle, that governments should attain maximum control of powers to allocate manpower. "It is quite evident that in the present emergency, it is necessary to control the distribution of manpower, and that it is necessary to control the distribution of manpower, and that it is necessary to control the distribution of manpower."

Woman Coroner

The full realization of her girlhood dream, when as a youngster in Barrie, Ont., she heard the "broken bones" of her dolls, had come to Dr. Agnes L. Jamieson of Haliburton, Ont. Premier Gordon Cochrane announced that she had been appointed coroner, the first woman coroner in Ontario.

Alaska Railroad Survey Completed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(AP)—

—Survey of a proposed trans-Alaska railroad to Alaska to supplement the Alaskan Highway has been completed. The United States war department announced yesterday that the line will not be built at present.

The survey was made by army engineers with the cooperation of the Canadian government.

"The war department does not consider that a military necessity exists for its construction at the present time," said the announcement. "Details of the survey have been filed for possible future war-time use."

Gardiner Sure Canada to Meet Bacon Contract

TATWA, Dec. 11.—(CP)—

Agriculture Minister Gardiner expressed belief yesterday that Canada could meet its new bacon contract with Britain if given "reasonable weather" and the co-operation of every one in Canada.

Speaking before a luncheon of the bacon section of the eastern Ontario export food show here, Mr. Gardiner read a cable from Lord Woolton, British food minister, expressing appreciation of Canada's food production program and the assistance in their present year.

QUALITY HIGH
The cable said bacon, cheese and eggs, particularly, are reaching Britain in increasing quantities and unsurpassed quality."

Lord Woolton's cable declared the 1942 cheese contract would be exceeded and first shipments under the new bacon contract being this month.

"We are about to arrange 1943 shipments of dried eggs which are a new product, to the success of which Canada is making a fine contribution," he said.

Mr. Gardiner expressed confidence the new bacon agreement, calling for an increase from 600,000 pounds to 815,000 pounds, would be met successfully because of the "unlimited amount" of food grains available for hog production.

dominion from one end to the other
And the skies above Canada were free from enemy planes. In British stunts pilots had to carry air ammunition in their pockets.

RAPID GROWTH
Just a few short weeks after the agreement was signed, B.C.A.F. and R.A.F. establishments started to appear on all established airfields in the Dominion and scores more were under construction on the broad prairies of western Canada.

The growth was steady and now a regular stream of trained pilots, navigators, observers and bombardiers, pour from the training schools of Canada to the battle fronts of the United Nations.

British, Canadian, Australian, New Zealand, South African, Norwegian, Fighting French and many thousands of Americans, have learned or are learning the science of aerial warfare in Canada.

The B.C.A.F. is now in the pay-off stage.

Returning to Canada in 1920 he entered the service of the company, where after short periods in the employment and advertising departments at Toronto, he gained his first merchandising experience in the men's furnishings department.

In 1921 he was moved to the company's Winnipeg store, where he spent the next two years in acquiring a first-hand knowledge of the company's Western business, including its extensive mail order operations in the Western provinces.

TRAVELS EXTENSIVELY
Mr. Eaton has travelled extensively in Canada as well as overseas, and has become thoroughly familiar with the company's business from coast to coast, and in its buying centers abroad.

In order to facilitate travelling in Canada he took to the air, an early stage in his business career, acquiring first a single-engine airplane, and later a twin-engine plane in which he travelled many thousands of miles, the outbreak of war, however, he donated his "plane to the government for war service."

Mr. Eaton was married in 1913 to Miss Sylvia Stephen of Winnipeg, and is the proud father of three sons, John Craig, Fredrick and Thor Edgar.

He is a great devotee of the outdoors life and counts among his favorite hobbies, yachting, fishing and hunting.

They are of the opinion that the horse is a much more valuable animal than the cow, and that it should be used for food. They are of the opinion that the horse is a much more valuable animal than the cow, and that it should be used for food.
